

James Miller Held For Theft of $210 From Lumber Firm

Police Arrest Youth, 16, This Morning Following Call From Concern at Viaduct

Boy Is Found

Police Say Youth Confesses Guilt, Shows Where He Put Moneybag

James Miller, 16, waived examination and was held for grand jury action when arraigned before Judge Mino in police court this afternoon. Bail was fixed at $250. The charge was grand larceny in the second degree.

Theft Reported
Theft of a bag containing $210 in cash and checks from the safe of the Clark & Davis Lumber Company office under the Washington avenue viaduct, was quickly solved by Officers Relyea and Entrott this morning with the arrest of the alleged thief and the recovery of the bag containing the cash taken.

It was shortly before 9 o'clock this morning when the police department received a telephone call from the lumber company stating that the moneybag had been abstracted from the safe, the door of which was open.

Hanging Around Office
A representative of the company said that a young boy named James Miller, 16, of Miller's Lane, had been hanging around the office this morning and had been left alone while those who had been in the office were out waiting on customers.

The company representative said that it was thought that the safe had been locked when they left the office unattended, but when he returned to the office he saw the safe door ajar and looked in and missed at once the bag of money.

Alleged Confession
Officers Relyea and Entrott in one of the radio cars received a message over the radio and drove out Miller's Lane where they met young Miller and another boy. According to the police officers young Miller confessed and took them to where he said he disposed of the moneybag.

According to the police they found the bag in a crotch of a tree in the woods about a quarter of a mile from the boy's home. To get to the tree the officers had to crawl through tall brush and undergrowth.

Bag Is Found

The moneybag was found where it was said Miller had thrown it. At police headquarters where the contents of the bag was counted, it was found to contain $212 in checks and cash, the amount reported stolen from the safe.

The money bag and its contents was identified by a member of the concern. The police say that young Miller made a statement regarding the crime.

The youth will be arraigned this afternoon before Judge Mino in police court.

The child, Elizabeth Parker, apparently made no outcry, as there were several persons in the pool.

While FDR Jokes

Coolidge 'I Do Not Choose' Anniversary Brings No Roosevelt Reply

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—Twelve years ago today Calvin Coolidge made his famous "I do not choose to run" statement, but the anniversary brought no intimation from President Roosevelt as to his own plans for 1940.

Mr. Roosevelt joked and laughed loudly yesterday when a reporter asked whether he would say something in connection with the Coolidge statement. The President asked if the reporter was suggesting that he spend his summer holidays in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Benjamin Levine Murdered in Store

Ellenville Mayor's Brother Struck Down in Jersey

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 2—Gray-haired, 65-year-old Benjamin Levine, father of 13 children, and said to be a brother of Herman Levine, mayor of Ellenville, N. Y., according to the Associated Press today was murdered in his small store.

The aged man peered out the window of his small dry goods store yesterday and watched a passerby on Burnet street, where for 29 years, he conducted his little business.

As he looked out the window someone came into the shop through a rear door and struck him down, three skull-cracking blows on the back of his head.

The assailant moved the body away from the window, took down some cloth from shelves and wrapped Levine up.

Jerome Levine, one of the victim's 10 sons, discovered his father's body in the late afternoon.

Republican-Governed Body Fails to Give Mayor Any Credit for Invitations to Official Opening

In adopting a resolution offered by Alderman Herbert Wolff of the Seventh Ward, one of the Democratic members of the common council, the Republican-controlled council declined to recognize Mayor C. J. Heiseleman as host to the children of Kingston at the dedication exercises held at the new Municipal Stadium last Saturday, but accorded that distinction to the Kingston Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

When plans were made for the dedication of the stadium the mayor arranged to have special seats erected and extended an invitation through the press to the boys and girls of the city to attend the exercises as his guests.

Petition Asks City Buses in Vicinity Of Forsyth Park

Service Would Extend Over Area Above Park With Six Regular Daily Trips Requested

Garon Speaks

Twelfth Ward Alderman Speaks in Support of the Petition

Extension of local bus service to the territory in the vicinity of Forsyth Park was sought in a petition filed with the common council on Tuesday evening, and which was referred to the railroad and bus committee of the council.

The petition, which had the support of Alderman Garon, of the Twelfth ward, seeks to have the bus line extend service over Lucas avenue, Merritt avenue, Fairview avenue, Snyder avenue to Hurley avenue, and the uptown business district.

The petition requested that six trips be made daily over the proposed extension of the bus route in the city, two trips to be made each morning, two in the afternoon and two in the evening.

Cites Convenience
The extension of the bus line to this territory would be of convenience to shoppers and afford means of transportation to school children, the petition stated.

Alderman Garon spoke briefly on the petition. He said that the persons who signed the petition are a few of the interested people living in the section that is proposed to be covered by bus service. "It has been my personal wish," he said, "to have such a service made available. Two years ago I personally approached a member of the bus company and asked the advisability of transit service, and was told that in order to inaugurate a new bus route on these streets it would entail additional equipment and that it was not thought the project would pay. Since that time the section has grown considerably."

With Adjustments
"I believe that the proposed service could be added to the present belt line with naturally some adjustments in schedule and consideration. I do not believe that the petitioners are particularly concerned with the exact routing as per their petition, but are particularly interested in a bus service in which to reach the business and school sections of the city. "I earnestly entreat the railroad and bus committee to use every effort in their power to realize this service."

Alderman Garon suggested that the present Washington-Foxhall avenue belt line be extended to include the Forsyth Park section on certain trips each day.

"Full Stop" Signs
Alderman Robertson of the Third ward proposed an amendment to the traffic code permitting installation of "full stop" signs at Farrelly street and Stephan street; Stephan street at Clifton avenue; Sylvester street at Clifton avenue, and Shufeldt street at Clifton avenue.

The proposal was referred to the traffic control committee.

Half Dozen Probes Will Begin Soon

Roosevelt Signs Hatch Bill, Asks Proper Handling

Chief Executive Sends to Congress Message Saying It Will Work if It Is Administered Well

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt today signed the Hatch bill regulating political activity of most federal job holders, and told Congress in a special message that if administered "in accord with its spirit" it would serve the purpose intended by Congress.

Taking the unusual step of informing Congress why he had approved the measure, the President said questions of constitutionality had been resolved in favor of the bill.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed to many of the broad provisions of the measure as involving difficulty of interpretation, but said: "It is because for so many years I have striven in public life and in private life for decency in political campaigns, both on the part of government servants, of candidates, of newspapers, of corporations and of individuals that I regard this new legislation as at least a step in the right direction."

Prohibits Activity
The act, sought by Senator Hatch (D., N. M.) for nearly two years, prohibits all federal job holders except policy-making officials from participating in politics in any way except to vote, on threat of removal from office. This will apply particularly to United States attorneys, marshals, customs and revenue collectors who in the past have been

Luck Changes Bence Has Bait-Saver

Fishermen's luck won't always be the worst in the opinion of a few local men who have been using a new device, patented by William Bence of 583 Delaware avenue.

Mr. Bence calls his invention the "Bence Bait-Saving Device" and he hopes soon to get it on the market on a large scale. The device has no intricate parts but is made with a preciseness which aids in the skillful handling of a line snagged under water. It consists of a rod-like structure with a looped wire at its end and rings which enable it to slide down a fish line. The idea is duplicated in three different sizes and there is still another of more complicated arrangement which is designed to retrieve bait from along a shore.

A testimonial to the effectiveness of the device was given recently by Matthew Bence, brother of its inventor, who was fishing recently in Canada. The former said he not only lost his bait but his casting rod, reel, line and spinner in 40 feet of water. The bait saver was not especially designed for such a big job of retrieving, but the unlucky fisherman said he attached some hooks to the wire loop and after dragging a bit got back the whole works.

Business Meeting To Plan Dollar Day

Merchants Also Will Hear From Outing Committees

The Uptown Business Men's Association will hold a regular monthly meeting Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock. All committees appointed to serve on the Merchant-Employee picnic and outing at Williams Lake on Thursday, August 17, are requested to be present.

Plans for the second annual outing will be discussed and also plans for Dollar Day will be announced.

The committee which had in charge the opening of Information Booths at various entrances to the city, will also report on that work. The booths were opened last week and are in operation. There will be several other matters to be disposed of and President William Hardenbergh is anxious that a representative attendance be on hand to settle these matters. As usual, the meeting will be at the Farm Bureau assembly room in the county building on John street.

Loughran to Give Principal Lay Talk At Autumn Rally

Court of Appeals Justice Will Address Regional Holy Name Rally on October 1

The Hon. John T. Loughran, associate justice of the New York State Court of Appeals, will be the principal lay speaker at the regional Holy Name rally to be held here on Sunday, October 1. The selection of a speaker representing the clergy has not yet been made.

Judge Loughran will address the Holy Name men from all parts of the New York archdiocese at the new stadium following the parade. The exercises at the stadium will close with solemn benediction.

Fire Chief Joseph Murphy, grand marshal of the parade which will be one of the features of the rally plans to have between 5,000 and 7,000 men in line.

The executive committee arranging for the rally, together with the presidents of the Holy Name societies making up the Ulster county division and members of the various sub-committees, met last evening at St. Joseph's school hall. Progress was reported by the chairman of every committee.

The Rev. Edmund Burke, spiritual director of the Ulster county division, declared he was highly encouraged by the reports. Father Burke said he was confident the Holy Name rally would be the outstanding Catholic event of the year in Ulster county and that it would be a magnificent display of faith by the Catholic men.

Questionnaires are being mailed out to the heads of the Holy Name societies in the archdiocese, and when these are returned the Ulster county committee will have sufficient information on which to base their plans. This information will include the number of men planning to attend from each society, the time of their arrival and their mode of transportation.

Fire Chief Murphy last night announced the addition of James G. Connelly, Ernest Cashman, John Heaney and Fred Harder to the parade committee.

The next meeting of the committee will be held at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, August 22.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Aug. 2 (AP)—Roy Annis believed several old coins he had were worth more than their face value of 81 cents. So the 20-year-old youth hitchhiked here from his Moultrie, Ga., home to see a coin dealer. Police found him weak with hunger on the street, arrested him as a vagrant when he refused to spend his money. City Judge John Byington ordered him fed and released, then had the coins appraised. Their value: 81 cents.

Wood and Murray to Hold Conference to Discuss What Steps Shall Be Taken

Following Lead

Police Report One Lead Is Being Followed; Others Fail

A novice prepared and set off the bomb that was used in an effort to wreck the Binnewater Lake Ice Company plant on South Pine street at 1:10 o'clock Tuesday morning, according to the police department. The police said today that the 18 sticks of dynamite found in the bomb which failed to explode, were not manufactured in New York state.

Today Chief of Police J. Allan Wood and District Attorney Cleon B. Murray will hold a conference regarding the bomb outrage and discuss what steps shall be taken in addition to what already is being done in the investigation.

The question of whether an expert from the bomb squad of the New York city police department will be asked to assist, also will be discussed.

Bomb Is Studied
Chief Wood said today that it was evident that the bomb that failed to explode had been placed on top of the one that exploded with the intention of the two bombs being set off simultaneously. As the one bomb exploded it hurled the other into the air and it fell, without being discharged, about ten feet away from the exploded bomb.

The unexploded bomb contained 18 sticks of dynamite and according to the experts who examined the bomb the dynamite was not of the type manufactured in this state.

All day Tuesday the police department followed several leads in the bombing but all except one lead proved futile. This lead, the police did not reveal what it was, was being followed today.

Car Lead Checked
Following the explosion Tuesday morning Robert Evory, the only man at the plant at the time, glanced out and saw an automobile in the street and in calling the police department he also furnished the license number of the car.

This lead was carefully checked by the police yesterday and it was learned the car was occupied by several Saugerties young men who had driven to Kingston with a local man, and after leaving him at his home, they had gone to an uptown tavern. Later they had planned to enter another tavern on Greenkill avenue and were just about to enter when they heard the explosion.

They drove out Greenkill avenue and turned into South Pine street, but believing it a dead end street had turned around and were driving out toward Greenkill avenue when Evory saw the car and noted down the number.

The Saugerties men were exonerated. Experts who examined the unexploded bomb yesterday were of the opinion that it was the work of a novice. The 18 sticks of dynamite had been arranged in three layers of six sticks. The wrappings had been removed to facilitate the explosion of the sticks.

The removal of the wrappings from the dynamite makes it a difficult job to trace the dynamite and ascertain where it was purchased and who manufactured it.

Ordinary Fuse Used
To explode the bombs which had been laid against the outer wall of the plant at one corner ordinary time fuses used in blasting operations were used.

Chief Wood said about three

Roosevelt Signs Hatch Bill Today

delegates to presidential nominating conventions.

Among other things, the sweeping measure also forbids solicitation of campaign contributions from persons on relief and prohibits use of relief funds to influence persons in voting.

Violators could be fined $1,000 and imprisoned for a year. Cabinet officers and other policy making officials, as well as members and employees of congress are exempted from the measure.

The President said he was confident "the purpose of the proposals of this legislation was that the new law be administered so that the right of free speech will remain, even to those who serve their government; and that the government itself shall have full right to place all facts in its possession before the public."

Contrary to Purpose

"If some future administration should undertake to administer this legislation to the detriment of these rights," he said, "such action would be contrary to the purpose of the act itself and might well infringe the constitutional rights of citizens. I trust that public vigilance will for all time prevent this."

The President said Attorney General Murphy had called his attention to a practical difficulty "which should be corrected by additional legislation as soon as possible."

"For many years," the message said, "there has been an exception to the civil service regulation whereby employees permanently residing in the District of Columbia or in municipalities adjacent thereto may become candidates for or hold municipal office in their municipalities. This and a few similar exceptions should, I believe, be maintained."

"The other question," Mr. Roosevelt continued, "relates to the fact that the bill does not in any way cover the multitude of state and local employees who greatly outnumber federal employees and who may continue to take part in elections in which they are candidates for federal office on the same ballot with candidates for state and local office."

"It is held by many who have examined the constitutional question that because the congress, under the constitution, may maintain the integrity of federal elections, it has the power to extend the objectives of this bill so as to cover state and local government employees who participate actively in federal elections."

"This is at least worth the study of the congress at its next session and therefore before the next federal election."

The President explained the reason he was sending a message making "certain observations" was because there had been "so many misrepresentations, some unprejudiced, some deliberate, in regard to his attitude on the bill."

He said the Genesis of the legislation lay in his relief message of January 5, 1939, in which he expressed the belief that "improper political practices can be eliminated only by the imposition of rigid statutory regulations and penalties by the Congress, and that this should be done."

Furthermore, he added, the Hatch bill, in applying to all except a few employees, the rules to which civil service employees have been subject for many years, is in "harmony with the policy that I have consistently advocated during all my public life, namely, the extension of civil service as opposed to its curtailment."

"It has been currently suggested," he said, "that partisan political reasons have entered largely into the passage of the bill. But with this I am not concerned, because it is my hope that if properly administered the measure can be made an effective instrument of good government."

Slightly Injured

Jack Lirio, 19, of 158 Green street, suffered a lacerated nose about 5 o'clock last evening when the car he was driving was in collision with the rear-end of a car driven by Tony Quarantano, of East Kingston, which had stopped when the signal light flashed red at the intersection of Broadway and O'Reilly street. The accident was reported to police headquarters.

Application Granted

A certificate of change of number of directors of the North River Coal Company of this city has been granted on application of Robert R. Rodie, president, and Frank R. Steed, secretary. ## Financial and Commercial

Spending, Lending Defeat Is Seen as Help to Business

Two pieces of news yesterday were outstanding because of their possible bearing on business and industry. They were the action of the House in refusing to consider the administration's huge spending-lending bill, and the move made by the NLRB in regard to the strikes in the automobile industry.

Some see an end of the so-called "pump priming" legislation as the House by a vote of 193 to 185 refused even to consider the spending-lending bill, which came to it from the Senate trimmed to $1,950,000,000 from the original three billions of dollars asked for. At least one commentator sees in the act an aid to business by relieving it from the threat of federal competition, rather than a detriment through the removal of the "pump priming" force of the measure.

The National Labor Relations Board, acting on petitions which had been filed for it from three and a half to six months yesterday ordered collective bargaining elections among employees of Chrysler, Briggs Manufacturing and Briggs Indiana and Motor Products. The two-to-one decision of the board denied CIO requests and ruled that elections be held by plant rather than on a company-wide basis. Workers will choose the AFL-CIO union or neither. As the AFL-CIO union may win at least some of the units, the dual union system will be perpetuated in the Chrysler and Briggs units. The Packard both are suffering from the effect of this system, but little hope is seen that the NLRB will act in relation to these companies, soon if at all.

The UAW-CIO has ordered a strike vote at the Packard plant in Detroit on August 6. Refusal to recognize the union as a bargaining agency is given as the reason.

President Weir, of the American Iron & Steel Institute, said yesterday that higher steel prices are necessary if the industry is to operate at a profit. He said that despite increased orders and production the industry as a whole is operating at a loss. Managements are blamed for selling below cost of production. Many reports of first-half profits do not consider preferred dividends, Mr. Weir stated.

Heavy melting steel scrap is selling at Pittsburgh at $16 to $16.50 a ton, highest for No. 1 scrap since October, 1937.

The Mexican government is reported to be seeking a basis for settlement of its expropriation controversies and will, it is said, offer the firms minority control in a government corporation which would manage operations of the disputed properties.

New passenger car registrations in the first half of this year totaled 1,408,102 units, a gain of 45 per cent over the first half of 1938. Truck registrations gained 27 per cent.

First half tire sales were well above recent years, while June shipments were near a record level.

Trading on the Exchange yesterday was dull and of generally little significance. Volume remained low, total being 580,000 shares. After moving downward for three days, the market closed on the up side yesterday, but by very small margins. Industrials in the Dow-Jones averages were up 0.10, to 143.36; rails gained 0.05, to 29.26 and utilities advanced 0.29, to 26.24. Commodities were irregularly lower. Abroad, the London market was lower, Paris and Amsterdam irregular, in quiet trading.

Some second quarter earnings reports include: Anaconda Wire & Cable, net of $121,239, 31 cents a share, vs. net loss of $172,943 in the 1938 quarter. Mack Truck, net of $237,626, 43 cents a share, vs. loss of $247,459 in 1938 quarter. Hupp Motor net loss of $284,978. Electric Auto-Life, net profit of $1,210,033, $1.01 a share, vs. net loss of $191,415. Stewart-Warner, net of $53,986, vs. loss of $186,419, vs. $170,425.

Boeing Airplane reports net loss of $183,550 in the first half of 1939. Colgate-Palmolive-Peet had six months net of $2,427,093 vs. $1,616,121 in the 1938 half. Melville Shoe, $1,005,948, vs. $485,648.

Zone Guard Hit

The traffic zone guard at Albany avenue and Madison was hit by a car driven by John A. Ryan of Grantwood, N. J. According to the police report Mr. Ryan agreed to pay for the damage, amounting to $5.55.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—A modest rally, on increased turnover, pushed stock market leaders up fractions to a point or more today.

Utilities assumed leadership after the list had gotten away to a poor start. The buying then spread to most other divisions. Toward the final hour prices were near their best.

Transfers were at the rate of approximately 1,000,000 shares.

Brokers said the defeat of the spending-lending bill in Congress had appeared bullish to some traders, who, at first undecided about its ultimate effect, finally hurried to the long side.

Other business news was considered favorable, though the foreign situation continued to bother analysts of near term trends.

Among stocks American Can, Burlington Mills, Celanese and Brooklyn Union Gas touched new highs for 1939.

Others ahead were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Bendix, Western Union, Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit and U. S. Rubber.

Higher on the curb were Aluminum Co., Newmont Mining and Peppercell.

While some opinion held failure of the spending-lending bill might detract in some ways from the favorable business outlook because of the money that would be found its way into industrial activity, there was a feeling in other quarters that it was a definite step away from certain practices of government disliked in Wall Street and therefore of favorable long range impact.

House Group Trims Last Bill Poletti Directs

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The house appropriations committee with a final session-end appeal for economy trimmed the administration's last bill today from $215,891,168 to $53,190,085.

Commenting on its recommendations, the committee said that "faced with the record for the session thus far of appropriations greatly exceeding in the aggregate the sum total of budget estimates," it felt "constrained to prune wherever such course would seemingly do no hurt."

Committee records showed the total appropriated since congress met in January, including so-called "permanent" appropriations governed by law, exceeded $13,000,000,000 compared with last year's total of $11,361,000,000.

The principal reductions effected in the final appropriation measure were the complete elimination of $99,918 item for restoration of the commodity credit corporation's capital impairment and reduction of the proposed outlay for acquisition of strategic war minerals from $25,000,000 to $10,000,000.

In addition, the committee flatly rejected a proposal to add $50,000,000 to the public buildings program which would have provided two new federal structures for each congressional district. Turned down the securities and exchange commission's request for $102,000 chiefly for proposed regulation of over-the-counter markets and for the commission's new office in London, Eng.

Cuts to $3,000,000

While the committee possibly was least drastic in its treatment of funds requested for national defense, it cut the $7,300,000 recommended for the civilian pilot training program to $3,000,000 and said that would be sufficient to train 7,500 students—the number authorized by the civil aeronautics authority. In that connection, the committee threw out the authority's request for $246,022 for improving the methods of selecting the students through physiological and psychological research studies.

In connection with the defense program, the committee recommended a direct appropriation of $2,070,000 plus contractual authorizations totaling $4,338,500 for the navy to carry out a broad program of improvement to navy yards, including construction of a $10,485,000 graving drydock at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

A $300,000 appropriation also was included to let the navy start work on a $2,000,000 rigid airship. The committee recommended that the navy be allowed to enter into contracts for the $1,700,000 balance.

Celebrates War Outbreak

Berlin, Aug. 2 (AP)—Under orders of Adolf Hitler the German army today celebrated for the first time an anniversary of the outbreak of the World War. Special observances of the 25th anniversary were conducted in all garbisons of Greater Germany, and Hitler's order made the day an army holiday. The controlled Nazi press took occasion to speak at length of the "heroic battle of 1914 to 1918" on the heels of a speech yesterday by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels. Dr. Goebbels said Germany's military position had improved vastly in 25 years.

School Begins for Eight

Canton, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP)—While most other school children still have more than a month of summer vacation, school days are here again for the eight pupils of the Laquin school. It is the only school in Bradford county where such a procedure is followed. Classes began Monday.

Leavenworth, Kas., Aug. 2 (AP)—Thirty-five years in prison is the price John Thornburg, 26, must pay for his "human bomb" holdup of the First National Bank at Chanute, Kas., March 27. He pleaded guilty yesterday. Thornburg said he spent the $4,860 loot on fast living, fast cars and women in the east and south and had violated the Mann act by taking girls across state lines.

Poletti Directs Saratoga Probe

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—Acting Governor Charles Poletti today directed Saratoga county officials to investigate alleged "gambling, prostitution and other violations of law" in the nationally-known summer resort.

Poletti, acting as the state's chief executive in the absence of Governor Lehman on vacation, sent his request in letters to District Attorney Alfred L. Simon, Sheriff Clarence McElwain, and Saratoga Springs Public Safety Commissioner Joseph Dougherty.

The order came three days after opening of the Saratoga Springs race track diamond jubilee meeting.

"I am referring to you a complaint which has been received by the governor alleging the existence of gambling, prostitution and other violations of law in the county of Saratoga," Poletti wrote. "As acting governor I direct you to investigate this complaint."

To each official, Poletti said he was sure "you will insist upon prosecuting any persons violating penal provisions with respect to gambling and other criminal offenses."

The lieutenant governor did not disclose the source of complaint. At Saratoga Springs, Simons said:

"I have not received the acting governor's letter nor received any complaints but all violations of the law will be fully prosecuted. We have strict enforcement of all laws in this community."

Police Chief John J. Ahearn, Saratoga Springs, asserted the police department "has not received any complaints of law violations."

"The law prohibits gambling and we'll enforce it," he added.

Eight Men Hurt As Scaffold Falls

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—Eight men were injured, one seriously, when a third-floor scaffolding on a new Brooklyn building collapsed today, dumping off a crew of 18 workmen.

The main rope holding up one end of the scaffolding snapped. Some of the workmen fell in a pile-up on the ground, others landed on the second and first floor girders and a few managed to hang on the structure until they could drop off safely.

The official police report said the accident was due to over-loading of the scaffolding.

The men were beginning work on the third story of a theatre and store building on Coney Island, between Avenue H and I, and Joseph Patrola, 54, of Brooklyn, was removed to a hospital with spine and head injuries. Others injured were treated at the scene and returned to work or to their homes.

Canfield Portrait Goes to City Hall

The large portrait in oils of the late Mayor Palmer Canfield, that had been presented to the board of education by the Kiwanis Club, was turned over yesterday to the mayor's office in the city hall by retiring Superintendent of Schools B. C. Van Ingen as one of his last acts before leaving office.

The portrait has been added to the collection of pictures of the mayors of Kingston that hang in the mayor's office. The collection is not complete since the portraits of eight mayors are missing.

The mayors whose portraits are needed to complete the collection and bring it up to date are: Charles Bray, 1880-85; John Newkirk, 1888-93; John E. Kraft, 1890-91; Dr. David Kennerly, 1892-95; Henry E. Wieber, 1896-97; Roscoe Irwin, 1910-13; E. J. Dempsey, 1914-19, and that of Harry B. Walker.

Lackawack Road Work Under Way

Work of cutting trees and brush and clearing the right of way for the new road which New York city will build along the hills on each side of the projected reservoir at Lackawack is under way. "Bull-dozers" and other machinery have been assembled, but up to first of the week work mostly had been limited to clearing operations.

The new road starts a hundred yards or so above the Loren Wright bridge over the Lackawack stream and about a mile south of the site of the dam. A new bridge will span the stream at this point and the road will continue along the hills on the west, the present contract carrying it far enough so that connection can be made with the South Hill road. Similarly a road will be built along the east side of the reservoir to the neighborhood of Montale.

Other contracts will ultimately carry both roads north making a drive that will encircle the reservoir.

Transfer Co. Bid Is Denied by ICC

The Interstate Commerce Commission has handed down a decision denying the application of the Kingston Transfer Co., Inc., 100 TenBroeck avenue, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing it to operate in interstate commerce as a common carrier by motor vehicle of household goods between points in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Rudi J. Hohenberger is president of the Kingston Transfer Co., which filed an application with the I. C. C. May 3, 1937. W. H. Frizzell, examiner for the I. C. C., held a hearing on the application, in Albany, June 26 of this year.

The petition was opposed by several Kingston concerns already qualified as interstate motor transport companies on the grounds, among others, that the new service was not required and would be competitive and detrimental to them.

The examiner found against the petitioner in the case and the Commission denied the application under date of July 25. The petitioner is given 20 days to file exceptions, otherwise the order becomes effective at the expiration of that time.

Several of the protesters against granting the application were represented by Attorney Joseph Avis of Kingston, one other being represented by Griswold E. Holman of Washington.

Joseph D. Green of Albany represented the Kingston Transfer Co. at the hearing.

Since 1935 motor transport concerns operating to points without the state have been forced to secure a certificate of necessity from the I. C. C.

WHY AN ANTARCTIC ROW?

Now Argentina steps into the Antarctic picture by naming a government commission "to gather all documents and prepare all precedents" to back up its claims to a part of the Antarctic Continent. The Argentine government is setting up its own claims in direct opposition to claims advanced by the United States. It finds talk of applying the Monroe Doctrine in that region unwelcome.

Argentina's claims are based on three facts. First, she is nearest to the disputed snowy wastes. Second, she has maintained a meteorological observatory on the Orcadas Islands in the Antarctic for 35 years. Finally, she already exercises certain jurisdictional functions in the area.

Isn't the nations getting off on the wrong foot in this matter and piling up unnecessary trouble for the future? Here is a region habitable under only the most rigorous conditions, inaccessible—although that handicap may be overcome—snowbound and frozen most of the time. True, there are valuable natural resources there, but the time has not yet come for their profitable exploitation.

Why should nations inconvenience themselves and stir each other's jealousy by scrambling for possession of the South Polar land? How much more sensible it would be to agree to cooperate in its exploration and eventual development for the benefit of all mankind.

MENTAL HEREDITY

A school teacher who in 45 years of service has taught three generations of children gives some interesting observations about inheritance. She finds a surprising relationship between the children of today and their parents and grandparents.

"I've noticed particularly that artistic ability shows itself," she says. "When the grandfather has shown artistic talent, the fingers of his sons and grandsons have been surer and more deft."

A curious thing is the way mathematical skill often skips a generation. Even when a father and mother have both had mathematical minds, it may be missing in their children; but their grandchildren will be skilled in mathematics.

Certain moral characteristics, too, are very evident. Earnestness of purpose, for example. Sometimes when the teacher hasn't known that a child was related to a former pupil, she has wondered at the resemblance, and then has learned that there is a relationship.

If she were a girl again, choosing a life work, she concludes, it would be teaching, and she would concentrate on primary class children. That is probably the most important branch of the whole educational system.

BUDGET FOR MAHARAJA

The very title of the young, wealthy, Oxford-educated Maharaja of Indore has connoted for most of us fabulous riches, glamor and power. But apparently even an independent Indian prince may be somewhat reined in by wifely thrift.

It is reported from Indore, India, that the American wife of the Maharaja has cut $32,000 a year off his household expenses. She feels, one is told, that "there is little justice in maintaining antiquated customs of pomp and pageantry when the pressing needs of poor people are not provided for."

If popular conception is right, $32,000 would be only a drop in the overflowing bucket of the Maharaja's wealth. Even so, it is impressive to have it lopped from his expense account for such a purpose.

STIMULATING STAMPS

There is nothing monotonous about United States postage stamps. Only a collector could keep up with the frequent special issues.

Nevertheless, the rest of us enjoy those we come across and like to hear of others planned. The coming series to honor 35 American men and women of letters, arts and sciences is particularly appealing. Emerson, Whistler, Longfellow, Horace Mann, Alexander Graham Bell, Sousa, Burbank and Jane Addams are on the list. There are other less familiar names, but these should only send us to our American encyclopedias and histories for a little patriotic research. In fact, we might make a game of the identification, by more than name, of the faces on postage stamps.

POPULAR G-MEN

The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced the other day that 176,000 persons had visited its offices in Washington during the first half of this year. That's a good many people. Evidently the young not only gobble up the G-Man fiction but persuade their elders to take them to see the place where their heroes work in fact.

It's always a good idea to subject glamor to reality. Many of the best arrests have been made from long, quiet study of files and information. G-Men have been known to hop around lively with guns when circumstances demanded, but typewriters and laborious study in the office are the tools of steady success.

A professor says there's "danger in youth movements." Also in adult movements. Also in standing still. So what are you gonna do?

It would be too bad to get in touch with those Martians and then find out we didn't like 'em.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

ANGINA PECTORIS

You may wonder as to just what difference exists between coronary thrombosis and angina pectoris.

In coronary thrombosis there is an actual blocking of the vessels supplying the walls of the heart. The blocking may be due to a blood clot, a small piece of tissue from some vegetable-like growths at valves of the heart, or to thickened lining of the blood vessel itself. As this condition may last for hours or days, the pain coronary thrombosis (under breast bone and up into left breast) may last for hours or days. There is some real damage present.

In angina pectoris there may be some of the same kind of damage present, but often there is no damage or alteration present in the heart itself or nearby vessels, but, nevertheless, something is interfering with the blood getting to the heart muscle. As the heart muscle is not getting enough blood (enough oxygenation), it cannot do its work and there is a tight vise-like pain present. By standing still, thus not asking the heart to pump as much blood, the pain usually passes away in a few minutes. This pain is under the breast bone and is exactly the same and caused in the same way as the pain we get as youngsters when we were running or taking exercise, before we got our "second wind." You may remember that we ran more slowly or even walked which gave the lungs a chance to catch up and get rid of the excess of carbonic acid in the blood. Thus, in angina pectoris, if the individual moves forward, the pain becomes worse, which explains why some patients "stand in their tracks" when the pain occurs.

It was formerly thought that all attacks of angina pectoris were due to effort or exercise but it is now known that excitement, anger, walking into the cold air, a heavy meal, may bring on the attacks.

Sir Thomas Lewis, in his book "Diseases of the Heart," has encouraging words for those afflicted with these attacks following effort. He states that the expectation of life in these does not differ very greatly from those who do not have these attacks. In other words, the majority of cases, if these individuals will exercise, eat, and have control of their emotions within reasonable limits, their life line will be as long as the average for their age.

The principle of the treatment is that the patient lives within the limit of his pain. The pain is his warning sign or danger signal.

Why Worry About Your Heart?

Is it enlarged? Does it skip beats? Do you get out of breath easily? Send for Dr. Barton's interesting booklet on the heart entitled "Why Worry About Your Heart?" (No. 102). Enclose ten cents with your request and send it to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y., mentioning the name of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

WHO SHE IS

MABEL A. SUGNET is a fair-skinned, soft-voiced brunette with hazel eyes from Ann Arbor, Mich., who works in the WPA offices, Washington.

A senator, a representative and a movie actress judged her one of six prettiest government workers. The six went on a radio question-and-answer program, and Miss Sugnet missed only two. She couldn't remember who wrote "Lord Jim" or who owned the island of Madagascar.

She's 26, five and a half feet tall, weighs 120 and says she couldn't stand a pound more. Smiles broadly as she talks.

At the WPA she divides her time between administrative and secretarial work. She's unmarried, likes American history, cycling, swimming and golf; most of all she likes to play the piano.

the piano as well as Eddie Duchin. I think he's tops among popular orchestras. And I like to tuck myself away for a quiet weekend with a couple of historical novels. But some day, for a serious future, I'd like to get into advertising.

"No, I'm not getting married in the near future."

"I think beauty can be a handicap to brains."

"So many executives think anybody that is beautiful can't possibly be intelligent. Of course there are exceptions among executives, but they are few and far between."

"But beauty and brains can be successfully worked together. Or maybe I don't mean exactly beauty so much as attractiveness."

"Any smart girl can look attractive in an office. But it's surprising how many pay no attention to their diets and don't take care of their hair or their skin."

"Too much attention to appearance is detrimental. That's why I say so-called beauty can be a handicap. After all, the main thing most executives want is intelligent, neat appearing people."

"My pet ambition is to play the piano as well as Eddie Duchin. I think he's tops among popular orchestras. And I like to tuck myself away for a quiet weekend with a couple of historical novels. But some day, for a serious future, I'd like to get into advertising."

For the stoppage of the "spending-lending" adventure is theoretically, at least, a step in the direction of economy and budget balancing, remote as both goals are at present from attainment.

It remains to be seen, however, what the economic effect will be. Word has gone out from Capitol Hill that in the melee of anti-administration activity, the conference report on the amendments to the social security law may fail.

If it does, every employer will face next January an increase in payroll taxes for old age insurance. It means a jump of from one to one and a half per cent. Also all the other changes unanimously agreed upon in the two houses

Mysterious 'Mr. X' Takes Over Executioner's Task

By E. HARRY CROCKETT
Boston, Aug. 2 (AP)—At the hands of a mysterious "Mr. X," who required nearly 40 minutes for his task, two Somerville youths stoned in Massachusetts' electric chair today for murdering a storekeeper during a $3.50 robbery.

The executioner, hired to replace the ailing veteran Robert G. Elliott, sent Wallace Green, 20, and Walter St. Sauveur, 19, to their deaths for the shooting of William Phillips, a middle-aged Somerville merchant, on May 31, 1938.

The executioner's name was kept secret at his own request.

Prison authorities and unofficial doctors explained Green had "an unusually strong heart."

The youths, who had blamed each other for the slaying, were reconciled just before their deaths.

Green entered the death chamber at 12:02 (E. D. T.) singing Protestant hymns.

As the current was applied, he was singing "In the Garden," and had reached the line—"and the joy He shares..."

Five shocks were applied before Green was pronounced dead at 12:23 (E. D. T.).

St. Sauveur entered the death chamber at 12:25 (E. D. T.) repeating the "Hail Mary," and the "Act of Love."

The youth kept his eyes closed and was directed to the chair by guards. He repeated a prayer which began, "Depart, oh Christian soul, from this sinful world," and had reached the line—"in the name of God"—when the first of three shocks silenced his lips.

Dentith said John Stahl, New Berlinville youth held in $1,000 bail, admitted cashing a forged check with his mother's name at a meat store. The lieutenant asserted Stahl then:

by Mayor Heiselman, it was said by the mayor's secretary when inquiry was made today.

Alderman Wolff's resolution, which was seconded by Alderman Donarumma, read: "Resolved, That the Board of Aldermen thank the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association of the Kingston police department for the splendid manner in which they staged the baseball games in conjunction with the opening of our new stadium and for their generous invitation to the children of Kingston on that occasion."

The resolution was not introduced until near the close of the council session.

Alderman Zucca of the First Ward said that according to the newspapers the mayor invited the boys and girls to be his guests, and Zucca suggested that perhaps the omission of the mayor's name from the resolution might be an oversight.

Alderman Wolff was asked if he heard to amend the resolution, and he declined to do so.

The resolution was adopted.

Divine Has 15 Millions To Spend for His Kingdom

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Daily News said today that Father Divine has a $15,000,000 fund to spend for land and that the dusky little Harlem messiah called God by his disciples was ready to take over two new "heavens" for his peace-chanting angels.

The cult leader, the newspaper reported, merely had to sign the papers to acquire the 2,500-acre estate of William Goelt in the Hudson Highlands back of Newburgh, N. Y.—the biggest single piece of property so far acquired by the organization—and the stone mansion owned by the late U. S. Ambassador Richard Washburn Child in Newport, R. I.

Goelt, whose ancestry traces back to the early Dutch settlers of New Amsterdam, announced several weeks ago his willingness to dispose of the Newburgh estate.

In addition, the News said, Divine planned to acquire other smaller tracts of land upstate and on Long Island. Mass visits by his followers to Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston were also planned. Chicago disciples have asked him to visit there September 6-12, promising a crowd of 50,000, while Philadelphia and Boston have assured him of 20,000 crowds.

New Yorker Held For Grand Jury

Charged with resisting arrest, Joseph Brayton, 33, of 334 West 21st street, New York city, was held to await the action of the grand jury when arraigned in police court today, when he waived the holding of a preliminary examination.

Brayton was arrested earlier in the week and when arraigned Monday had demanded a preliminary hearing on the charge and the case had been adjourned until this morning.

Brayton was arrested on two charges. The other was that of public intoxication on Wall street. The second charge grew out of the first, since according to Special Officer William Messing, the New Yorker man resisted arrest and struck him in the nose, causing it to bleed and also broke the officer's wrist watch.

Attorney Roger H. Loughran represented the district attorney's office. Brayton was not represented by an attorney. Bail was fixed at $500.

Brayton was fined $5 on the public intoxication charge.

cial committee; a ways and means committee review of proposed changes in the tax structure, and the Dies committee investigation of un-American activities.

Another which will be carried into its second year is under the direction of the federal monopoly committee.

Administration supporters brought pressure to bear in an effort to obtain favorable Senate action today on resolution to give the LaFollette civil liberties committee an additional $100,000 with which to continue its investigation of employers' labor relations.

President Roosevelt singled out the LaFollette committee yesterday for comment, expressing the hope that it would get the additional funds.

The house voted yesterday to appropriate $50,000 for the labor board investigation.

The house also approved a $15,000 expenditure for a merchant marine committee investigation of Alaskan fishing conditions and voted $5,000 for the tax inquiry.

The House previously had voted $100,000 for the Dies committee.

Meanwhile, administration leaders said there was little likelihood of favorable action on a resolution by Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.) to appropriate $100,000 for a study of national monetary policies.

The Senate audit committee also had before it a proposal by Senator Holman (R., Ore.) to give the immigration committee $50,000 to look into the status of aliens in this country.

Congress Authorizes Almost Billion for Various Agencies

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—Although the house killed the lending bill, federal ledgers disclosed today the present congress has authorized at least $800,000,000 for the very agencies involved in the program.

It was in an attempt to expand these existing authorizations for the next seven years that the administration sponsored the lending measure.

Here are the amounts shown in the budget as available for the fiscal year ending next June 30, compared with the extra amounts proposed by the president:

feet of this fuse had been used. This fuse was calculated to burn at the rate of 45 seconds a foot, and the fuse used would allow the bomber approximately 135 seconds in which to light the fuse and make his escape.

It was the smoke from this burning fuse that Every smelled when he investigated by opening a door about in the center of the building and glanced out. He saw nothing, and walked into the engine room just as the bomb exploded.

The bomb that failed to explode was a homemade affair. Those who examined it said that the fuse had been so clumsily attached to the firing cap that the one who made the bomb had wedged the fuse into the cap with a stick of a match. The bomb was wrapped up in brown wrapping paper.

A modern "Steve Brodie," (left) who said he was Michael Ford, of Ireland, sits underneath Brooklyn bridge after amazing New York police by diving 133 feet into the East River—and surviving. He did it, he said, on a bet. He's shown examining underclothing torn by the impact. Meanwhile, in Cleveland, Charles Davis, 44, (right) a war veteran, threatened to keep his high perch on a bridge girder, 300 feet above a river, "until I get my soldier's relief." Sight of firemen brought him down after an hour.

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Bizard

THURSDAY: Philip Callen promises Cecily to let him stay at Dorelea since she brought the situation on herself. One night, Cecily finds a pleasant young man in her bedroom who says his name is Philip Callen.

Chapter 11

Lochinvar In Person

CECILY picked up her cup. It danced on the saucer as she put it back when he had spoken. "Philip Callen?" she repeated slowly and with assumed sweetness. "I tell you my name or shall I make up one, too?"

"Don't you like it?"

"It's so common. So many people seem to have it. I won't insist on your telling me. I don't wish to probe," she added sedately.

He leaned toward her and spoke in a theatrical whisper:

"Thank you, lady. You've treated me right and I'll do the same. I'm a bad man from the wild West! I wanted the pose is after me for holding up the stagecoach from Beverly Hills to Los Angeles! But I got a head start this mornin'!"

Cecily laughed at his nonsense and then, catching herself, she said sarcastically: "Congratulations, Jesse James! This is the rockbound coast of Maine."

"How long does it fly? But here, mink, my name isn't Jesse James."

"I'm not good at guessing games," she replied.

"Now, let's us think of something more attractive. How about Lochinvar? He was a gallant West-ener."

"A bold one, too," she agreed, and saw that it was nearly ten-thirty.

She got up.

"I'm afraid that I can't offer you my hospitality any longer." She had forgotten that she hadn't offered it in the first place.

He picked up a hat that looked as though it had seen rough traveling across the country by pony express.

"I don't like to turn you out into the night. May I offer you a small loan?"

Cecily took two dollars from her purse and held them out to him.

He looked at them slowly. Then he looked at her face and something warm came into her breast. She thought: He likes me!

He bowed deeply and, with the rest, he took the bills, slipping them carefully into his pocket.

"Thank you," he said simply. "Merely a loan, of course."

He bowed again. Cecily could have sworn that there was a flourish in the manner in which he swept his hat rakishly onto the side of his head as he went off toward the door.

She closed the door in back of her and set out homeward toward Dorelea, forgetting the ball of white yarn.

Unreality

SOME rain had cleared away in the night and the bright morning sun fell on Cecily's eyes, wakened her to the day and a realization that she anticipated that day.

A lay quiet for a few minutes, ruminating the memory that clouded her yet quickened her senses.

She felt eager and suddenly alive, though she wanted to go out to get something.

There was a new feeling that perched on her, and with it came a rush of memory.

A cutting of suddenly seemed to fall off as she had been during the last week. She realized that she had been so busy that she had not had time to read the paper.

She picked up the paper and found a clipping that had come from the newspaper columns during the summer colony season. It was a clipping of a letter from Philip Callen, well-known author.

Later in the season, Mme. Darrell will entertain a party of fellow artists of the Met. This is an annual custom at Dorelea to which Vickersport looks forward. During the closing week of the summer colony season, a concert is given by Mme. Darrell and her guests and the proceeds are given to the local charities. Word reaches us that this affair is comparable in brilliancy to the more ambitious projects of the New York season. It's an occasion for diamond tiaras and Paris gowns and the wealthy colony which summers at Vickersport puts aside its cottons and wools to blossom on this occasion.

Cecily read it hastily and tucked it into her pocket, glad that she had been able to give Jean a bit of news.

Her footsteps hastened along the main street of the village, impelled by a desire that she refused to put into words. She wanted to get to the shop before Laura arrived. There might be—there just might be—a message for her there. What the message would be, she had no idea. Or if there would be one.

There was.

Slipped under her door was a small white envelope.

With mounting excitement, she picked it up and opened it.

There was a sheet of blank paper enclosing two crisp one dollar bills and a small, faded spring. That was all.

She held the spring with its dried blossom in her hand. "It's Rosemary," she said. And then, "Rosemary is for remembrance."

source of her antagonism for him. But, search as she would, she could find no tangible reason. At first, she had expected that he would, in her own words, take advantage of the situation, to make passes at her. Yet when she was alone with him, his attitude was that he was amused rather than intrigued with her. In the presence of others, he was a trifle more attentive to her. That was all.

Suddenly the memory of his eyes when he didn't know he was being observed came back to her. They always seemed to narrow a trifle as though they were calculating something.

That small sign was a danger signal to Cecily and, for all that she could not imagine what he was calculating, she decided to go to Olivia with the truth. She would do it that night.

Having disposed of her resolution, her thoughts turned to the more pleasant immediate future. And to the night before.

"Lochinvar, indeed!" she said, and was impatient to be up.

In her closet her frocks were arranged in neat rows. She selected a bright blue linen without consciously thinking that her gray eyes took on a blue light reflected from the tone of the fabric.

She brushed her tawny hair until it shone and tied a blue kerchief over it. She put on her flat-heeled moose and took them off again, donning instead a pair of high-heeled sandals. Looked like somebody's little girl, did she?

It was scarcely eight when she ran down the stairs. She was the earliest riser at Dorelea.

Rosemary

THERE was a letter at her breakfast place. She opened it eagerly. Wilson had returned with the evening mail while she was out the night before and, in her excited mood on her return, she had forgotten to ask if there had been any for her.

A newspaper clipping fell out with the letter.

Both were from Jean Tuthill. "We miss you, darling," Jean wrote, "but we envy you. It's been beastly in New York. We thank heaven for the coyness of your apartment which Hilda adores."

There was more about the activities of Cecily's group of friends. At another time, she would have felt a wave of nostalgia for them. Today, her interest was no further than where she was. She turned the pages, reading:

"Thanks for the bits of news from Vickersport," Jean went on. "Don't forget to tell me when you have other guests. It's hard to fill the newspaper columns during this weather and every little bit helps. I'm enclosing a clipping of an item out of your last letter."

Cecily had written that Philip Callen was a house-guest. She had added no details. She picked up the clipping.

It was dated nearly a week before and read:

Conspicuously absent at the gay parties attendant on Tennessee Week at Newport are those three popular debutantes, Gloria Watts, Allene Bixby and Karen Willoughby who are house-parters in Maine. They are the guests of Gloria's mother, Mme. Olivia Darrell of the Metropolitan, whose palatial summer home, Dorelea, at Vickersport is famed for its almost constant roster of celebrated guests. A recent addition to the party is Philip Callen, well-known author.

Later in the season, Mme. Darrell will entertain a party of fellow artists of the Met. This is an annual custom at Dorelea to which Vickersport looks forward. During the closing week of the summer colony season, a concert is given by Mme. Darrell and her guests and the proceeds are given to the local charities. Word reaches us that this affair is comparable in brilliancy to the more ambitious projects of the New York season. It's an occasion for diamond tiaras and Paris gowns and the wealthy colony which summers at Vickersport puts aside its cottons and wools to blossom on this occasion.

Cecily read it hastily and tucked it into her pocket, glad that she had been able to give Jean a bit of news.

There might be—there just might be—a message for her there. What the message would be, she had no idea. Or if there would be one.

Modern Historians

The men who rewrite history claim Lincoln was a boob, A clownish pettifogger from the sticks;

While Grant was just a blunderer, a heartless, nit-wit rube, And Luck alone produced his winning tricks.

John Adams smuggled tea and things, and schemed to start a fight To save a trimming in the British courts.

While Washington, in real estate, was doing quite all right, And gambled often with Virginia sports.

Now that they've smeared a lot of dirt on these time-honored names, They've gone and made a hero of bandit Jesse James!

Specialist—Frequent water drinking prevents you from becoming stiff in the joints.

Sweet Young Thing—Yes, but some of the joints don't serve water!

Rastus (boasting)—Boy when Ah hits a man he knows it. Marcellus—Dat's nothing, Big Boy. When Ah hits a man he don't know it until a week later.

Maintaining a good reputation is worthwhile. The time will come when there is use for it.

Sam (to his employer)—Look here, boss, you've got to give me a raise or I'll—

Employer—Else you'll what?

Sam—Well, else I'll go on working for the same money.

There is a man who says himself that he cannot start working until he starts sweating, and that when he starts sweating it makes him too weak to work.

Straphanger—Madam, you have placed your bag on my foot.

Lady Straphanger—Oh, I'm so sorry. I thought it was on the foot of the man sitting down.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Blackie—A whistling parrot who helps his owner, Dominick Falugi, 77, run a fortune-telling business by picking the fateful cards for patrons, couldn't foresee his own future. The parrot and Falugi were given a one-day jail sentence for peddling without license.

Blackie perched on a cell bar and whistled "My Time Is Your Time."

Doctor's Turn—Indiana's helping take out a patient's appendix. Dr. Gerald Marsh, Methodist Hospital, terms, felt a sharp pain in his right side.

Other internes examined him and found he had appendicitis. In less than three hours, he had his own appendix removed.

Quick Ship—Valley City, N. D.—Here's a way of getting undressed quickly but Andrew Wilson, 70, a farmer, doesn't recommend it.

His overalls caught in a tractor drive shaft. When he recovered consciousness, all he had on was his shoes and shirt cuffs. The tractor was a block away with the rest of his clothes. All he got was a bump.

Sleep is an antidote for many evils, although sleeping too much is an evil itself.

SMART SCALLOPED MATRON FROCK

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9127

There's nothing like the poise that meticulous tailoring gives you—especially if yours is a difficult-to-fit figure. Marian Martin's Pattern 9127 makes both a cool printed dress for now, and a smart woolen fall frock. That long center panel slenderizes in a gay and different way, with scallops frolicking all the way from the neck to your very waist. There are no waistline seams—just straight, slim princess lines with a nice, easy flare at the hem. Make short sleeves, or use the new long style with scallops that copy at those edging the panel. You may use ruffle trim if you like, and cut the square neck smartly high or coolly low.

Pattern 9127 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric and 1½ yards ruffling.

HELP FOR HOUSEWIVES

Learn New Steps at Home! You see them at every dance! The good dancers who with a variation of two make even the fox-trot new and exciting. And the poor dancers who try to imitate them but give up in despair.

But those lively variations aren't difficult. Anyone with diagrams and instructions can learn to do fancy steps, be among those sought after on the dance floor.

Do the Swing Step given in our diagram. It will dress up your fox-trot, delight your partner.

Count 1—Step forward on left foot. 2—Swing right foot forward and touch toe lightly to floor. 3—Step back on right foot. 4—Swing left foot back, touch toe lightly to floor.

To indicate a change from other fox-trot steps to the Swing Step, the man stops his partner with a firm pressure of hand and arm. And by knowing such tricks of leading, following, it's easier of course to do other variations in other popular dances.

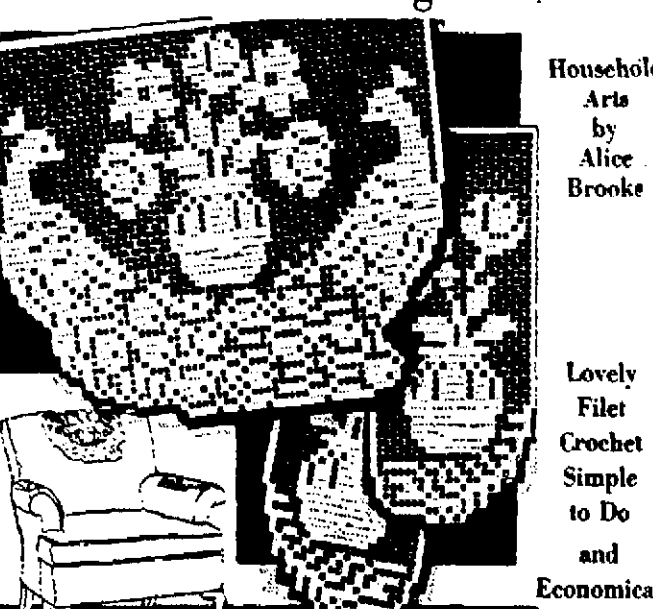

Our 32-page booklet gives diagrams and directions for the fox-trot, slow fox-trot, waltz, rumba, tango and swing—basic steps and variations. Tells how to lead and follow smoothly, become an expert and popular partner.

Holland, On German Route To Britain, Builds Army But Hopes To Avoid War

Background

While Holland politicians wondered whether resigned Prime Minister Colijn would form a new cabinet, European strategists wondered whether Germany would cut through Holland in event of war. Holland's resignation came because Colijn didn't want to borrow money for public works and defense. This story tells what Holland already has done for defense—and why.

By J. C. Stark

Amsterdam (AP)—The Netherlands still has one of the best tight-rope acts in world politics, but the balance becomes more and more precarious and doubts grow among political leaders that it would keep the country out of another general war.

Relations officially are "correct" with the totalitarian regimes as well as with the democracies. No official differences exist with big neighbor Germany other than on trade, in itself a big one.

There is no territorial question between the two countries, for the Netherlands stayed out of the World war and acquired no territory as a result of it. There is no German minority problem. The Netherlands has a fairly large German population but it is scattered and unorganized.

Sympathize With Democracies

But the Netherlands is a democracy. Its people are strongly individualistic, dislike regimentation in any form, and feel none too comfortable about living so close to a big power which in the case of Czechoslovakia has seized non-German territory.

The sympathies of the Dutch people as a whole, and apparently of the government itself, are on the side of the democracies. Prime Minister Henkrius Colijn himself has declared "National Socialism will never conquer here because we love freedom, because the whole of Holland, would rise as one man against the claims of National Socialism."

At the same time, Holland is careful not to antagonize Germany. The prime minister has cautioned the utmost restraint by the people so as to "irritate no one." Generally, the people follow his advice and go about their business calmly. They showed less nervousness during recent European crises than most other countries.

The Big Trouble

The one big official difference between the little democracy and the big totalitarian regime is over trade. Unable to dispose of all her goods in other markets, Holland is forced to trade more with Germany than she likes. And as a result of the barter system, Germany owes Holland $20,000,000 payable in German goods.

The Dutch government meanwhile pushes defense measures, keeps more troops under arms, has bridges mined for immediate destruction in an emergency, and watches.

The man in the street, not very military-minded anyhow, wonders if any of these things can have more than a psychological effect. Officials themselves acknowledge that Holland would find it much more difficult to stay out of war now than in 1914.

For example, it is pointed out here, German troops lost several valuable days then by going completely around the southern tip of Holland to enter Belgium. Foreign military observers doubt that this would happen again.

If War Comes

If war should come they theorize, Germany would strike out for a lightning victory. The temptation would be great, they say, to march through Holland for a short cut to the North sea and east striking distance of England. In such an event, Holland's comparatively small army would find it difficult to hold the Germans long.

Most military observers consider Holland's best defense today, as in ancient times, to be her system of river and canal dikes which permit flooding a large part of the country on short notice. Under this plan, the army would retreat behind the inundation and try to hold out until help came.

That it would not be long in coming from Great Britain is taken for granted by the Dutch.

In these circumstances, Holland relies on a policy of strict independence, hopes other nations will respect it, but prepares to defend herself so far as possible if they don't.

Belgium, Innocent Bystander in '14, Now Fears Violation of Air Frontier

Mapping The News 25 Years Ago

Twenty-five years ago—July 28, 1914—the World war started. A few days later Germany invaded Belgium. This story, telling what's worrying Belgium today, was written by J. C. Stark, AP Chief of Bureau in London, after a first-hand survey.

Brussels, Belgium (AP)—A quarter of a century after the German invasion of Belgium—in August, 1914—Belgians are worrying about the danger of a new war. But they don't believe history will repeat.

They think, in any event, that if a new European war should come, Belgium would not suffer the first blow as she did in 1914.

There would be a good chance for their country to stay out altogether, Belgians say, except for one thing—the air.

The eastern frontier, with Germany, is better fortified, than it was 25 years ago. The fortifications cover a longer stretch. Behind them is a stronger army, always on guard.

And besides, Belgians say, the whole military situation has changed since 1914. In the event of a new war between Germany and France, for instance, some military experts believe neither would try immediately to break through the strong land fortifications of the other.

The first deadly assaults, they say, would be from the air. And that's why Belgium worries so much. It's that frontier—a relatively new one—which many Belgians fear would be violated first. The one Belgium is least prepared to defend—and the most difficult one to defend.

On The Main Line

The shortest route, as a crow flies, between Berlin and Paris is across Belgium. Between Berlin and London, it's across Holland. But between London and Munich or some other southern German cities, again it's across Belgium.

Belgium could be avoided, as well as Holland, by British, French or German planes carrying out attacks on the enemy. But in warfare especially it would be easy for pilots to get off their courses.

Under the new foreign policy of complete independence, Belgium is committed to defend her own frontiers. This is as true of the air as of the land.

If French, British, or German planes flew across—intentionally

White arrows on this map indicate the column-centers of eight invading German armies. The five that run through Belgium trace the great wheeling movement by which Germany almost won in its first six weeks.

or unintentionally—once or twice—the enemy country might merely lodge protests with Belgium and demand that she protect her frontier. If it happened several times, however, the other country might resort to the same course.

So the battlefield might be over Belgium—and might eventually draw Belgium into the war.

The Belgian 'Sudetens'

Another big worry in Belgium just now is her "Sudetensland." This is the frontier territory which Belgium acquired from Germany after the war—the cantons of Eupen, Malmédy and St. Vith. Adolf Hitler hasn't asked for their return. Hitler has even put them in the same category with France's Alsace-Lorraine as territory to which he has no further claim.

Nevertheless they've become a hotbed of pro-Nazi propaganda and political agitation, according to disclosures in parliament. Seventy thousand people live in the three cantons. Eupen is the largest. St. Vith with the smallest. Germans predominate in both. In Malmédy, however, the population is largely Walloon (French).

Propaganda Raids

Pro-Belgian residents of the districts say the people generally are satisfied, want to stay in Belgium, and would have no serious complaint about their treatment if left alone by the agitators.

But they are deluged with German propaganda which is especially effective among the youths, according to charges in parliament.

"Travel agencies" sponsor tours into Germany for the youths of the districts. At St. Vith, for instance, thirty young men are said to have been taken to Germany, given courses of instruction, and returned in military formation.

Politically, the pro-Nazi groups have made little headway. In the general election in April this year, the party considered as pro-Nazi—the "Heimatfront Front"—failed to get a seat in parliament.

A PAIR OF TORTOISESHELL SPECTACLES

A True Story

Moral—"It Pays To Advertise"

(A Tribute to the Kingston Daily Freeman)

Editor, The Freeman:

Over the week-end I lost my tortoiseshell rimmed spectacles, used for reading, and after a long search I felt badly and inconveniently. Dr. Harry Pitts, our well-known oculist and optician, had fitted me with this pair and they suited me admirably, I felt. Owing to near-sightedness, it has been necessary for me to wear glasses for half a century but only of late, any for reading; so I was quite proud of these spectacles. When I gave up my search which was over the section of the city where I walked that day, and through the State of N. Y. National Bank, where they were very nice and sympathetic about my loss; the Mohican store, the Bus station, the Borst Grocery, Wm. H. Niles, all of whom made efforts in assisting me to look for my "specs." It made me feel that Kingston people are very hospitable and courteous. Then Monday morning 10:30 a. m. I inserted an ad. in the Lost and Found column of the Freeman and things began to move. I asked for an insertion that day and one for the next. The ink was scarcely dry on that afternoon's issue when the 'phone began to buzz. (Mr. Van Buren of Pearl and Green streets informed me he had read my ad in the Freeman and that he had found my spectacles in the First Dutch Church yard and turned them into the police safe and sound.) This was thrilling news and I thanked him heartily. The Police Headquarters politely called me within the next minute that they had read my ad. and that they thought they had my spectacles; would send them up by radio car right away for identification and delivery of the reward. This was great work; then two more messages came that they had heard my "specs" were found and the police had found them; asked if I had been in an auto accident and was I hurt? You see how many sources read the ad's in the paper.

The excitement was great at 286 Wall street, opposite the old Court House, as the radio car rolled up and a handsome uniformed member of the police force came up the three flights of stairs to my son's law offices, handing me my spectacles for identification which was instantly done, and the little reward given and delivered to Mr. Van Buren.

"It pays to advertise," if you want to get thrills and results.

WILLIAM C. DEWITT.

New Arrangements Made for Exhibit

New arrangements have been made this year for knitted and crocheted articles in the Home Department of the Ulster County Fair, it was announced today.

Instead of being in a separate section these articles will be combined with other groups.

Alghans, bedspreads and tablecloths are in the crocheted section and are each offered premiums of $5, $3 and $2 for first and third place. The third prizes in this group were formerly only $1, each but, it will be noted, have been increased to $2.

Knitted or crocheted bags may be entered under clothing in a class for any kind of hand-made bag, with premiums of $1, 75 cents and 50 cents.

Also under clothing is the class for knitted or crocheted or woven dress or coat, with premiums of $5, $3 and $1; also the class for small knitted or crocheted articles of apparel, such as mittens, gloves, socks, etc., with premiums of $1.50, 75 and 50 cents.

Sweaters, it will be observed in the premium list, have been omitted this year.

Weather Bureau Gives July Data

Taking a look at the record for July will not give a true picture of the drought situation according to official figures of the weather bureau at Albany where the official observer's records disclose that the rainfall for July was but .57 inches below normal for the month.

Official figures show 2.86 inches of rain during the month compared to the normal of 3.43 inches. On the face these figures do not indicate much of a drought but the figures in the figures is that nearly two inches of this rain fell in the last week of July leaving the first portion of the month very dry and causing very severe damage to crops.

Temperature records were smashed. On July 13 a low of 43 degrees was reached and on July 16 a low of 45 degrees. Prior lows for the area for July were 53 degrees on July 13, 1886 and 52 degrees on July 16, 1920, at the Albany observer's office. A high record was also established during July when on July 25 the mercury touched 97 degrees, the highest for the date in the history of the bureau. The previous high was 92 in 1910.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

Reputations may be priceless but three of baseball's foremost pitchers will tell you today that this is just idle prattle in the major league arenas.

It's disrespectful enough that the World Champion New York Yankees and the National League leading Cincinnati Reds should be sullied on the same day. Yet this not only happened yesterday with their respective pitching technicians, Red Ruffing and Paul Derringer in the control booths, but the same short-circuit cut down young Bob Feller.

Ruffing had not been beaten by the Detroit Tigers since June 1937 and had won 13 consecutive games from the Bengals but Del Baker's surly Tiger troupe routed him 5-2 in their series opener at New York.

runs, the second with the bases loaded, to pace the Boston Red Sox to a 7-5 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

The first day of August also popped up with a couple of other features. For one thing Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, chose to see his holdings perform—an unusual pastime for him. Dizzy Dean's $185,000 throwing arm took this occasion to go on the blink again and Manager Gabby Hartnett pushed Larry French into action. The veteran left-hander, who had complained to Wrigley the day before that he wasn't getting enough work, thereupon pitched the Cubs to a 6-2 victory over the Phillies.

For another there was an outburst of 15 triples—baseball's rarest hit—in seven of the day's eight games including five in the St. Louis Cardinals test with the Boston Bees. Johnny Mize hit two with men on bases and the Martins, Stu and Pep, each contributed one as St. Louis won 4-3.

Dixie Walker hit two for the Dodgers, driving in two runs, as Brooklyn beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3.

In the American League Tony Giuliani, Washington catcher, hit a three-bagger with the bases loaded to lead the Senators to a 7-5 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Kingston's new municipal stadium will be the scene of the first arc light baseball game of the current campaign tonight, when the Kingston Colonials meet Hank Bozzi's powerful Mohawk Colored Giants. The contest will get under way at 9 o'clock sharp.

Charlie Neff or Eddie Wallace will be on the hill for the Colonials against the Giants. Both of these hurlers have been pitching high class ball of late and should give the men of Bozzi plenty of trouble.

Bozzi will call on Art Mitchell or Slim Coleman, the latter probably getting the starting assignment.

In his only start for the Colonial team, Wallace was beaten by the same Giant club by 10 to 4, but it so happened that his teammates chimed in with seven costly errors. Since that time Ed has joined for the Colonial-Saugerties combine against the Mohawks and has turned in two credible performances.

Neff's recent pitching against the hefty clouters of the New York Police labeled him as one of the best hurlers in this district. Charlie was the boy who stopped such hurlers as Foley, Butman and Olsky. Two of these Gotham Bluecoats lashed out homers at the Polo Grounds recently. With Neff and Wallace in readiness, Davi apparently hasn't any trouble in the pitching line.

The lineups for tonight's game:

Colonials: Husta, 3b; Benjamin, c; Gallagher, 2b; M. Tiano, 1b; Francello, ss; DuBois, cf; Lay, rf; Van Etten, 1b; Neff or Wallace, p.

Giants: Toronto, rf; Jeffries, 3b; Harrison, 1b; Pelham, ss; Ewing, c; Hobson, 2b; Durant, cf; Milton, 3b; Coleman, p.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2 (AP)—Baseball to Chuck Klein is a "tough racket," but he says the day they take away his uniform for keeps will be the saddest of his life.

"Baseball is the only thing I know, and I'm going to keep on playing it as long as I can," declared the 33-year-old slugger who was left broken-hearted when set adrift by the lowly Phillies after 11 years of major league campaigning.

"I came back to life and I'm hitting a 342 clip as the new driving spark of the Pirates but there'll be other years and Chuck knows a player just can't go on and on.

The slugger recalled he didn't sleep the night he was released by Philadelphia "but I knew I wasn't through as a big league player. All I needed was a chance to play regularly."

"When I got through in the majors I won't be too proud to carry on the minors. Maybe I'll wind up being a manager somewhere and last a long time. But as long as I can play I'll play, and I'm going to keep myself fit. The good and bad breaks have a way of evening up if you just stay in there working."

DiMaggio Rates as Leading Fielder

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—Between issuing flat denials that the New York Yankees are for sale, President Ed Barrow is getting a lot of amusement out of a statement by Tris Speaker that he could name 15 better outfielders than Joe DiMaggio.

When he made this assertion the old "Gray Eagle" meant that baseball since it began had produced 15 more brilliant flyhaws than DiMag. He wasn't talking about batting, apparently.

"That's a foolish statement for Old Spoke to make," chuckled the Yankees' veteran head. "I've been watching them come and go longer than he has, and as a matter of fact he can just name one better fielding outfielder than DiMaggio is today. That was Speaker, himself."

"I won't take it away from Spoke. He was a marvel, the best there ever will be. But I'm afraid he's unconsciously comparing DiMaggio to himself. What other outfielder does he think was better than Joe? He couldn't mean Ty Cobb. He never was more than a hitter."

"No, if I was in a tight spot, where maybe a world series depended upon having a man in center-field who could make any kind of a catch, my first choice would be Speaker and my second choice DiMaggio."

Barrow would like for Speaker to produce his list of 15, and also would like to learn where the rumor arose that anyone with five or six million dollars in cash money could step up and purchase the entire Yankee baseball empire.

"The Yankees absolutely are not for sale," he declared. "They can't be sold, because Colonel Jacob Ruppert's will expressly stipulates that they are not to be sold or the system broken up. There is no need to raise cash to pay inheritance taxes, as has been reported. It is not yet even known the amount of such taxes, and, anyway, they are to be paid out of the other parts of the Ruppert estate."

Barrow would like for Speaker to produce his list of 15, and also would like to learn where the rumor arose that anyone with five or six million dollars in cash money could step up and purchase the entire Yankee baseball empire.

Air Corps Celebrates Its 30th Anniversary

Washington, Aug. 2 UP—The army air corps celebrated its 30th birthday anniversary today with mass flights throughout the United States and defense exercises over 1,500 miles of the west coast.

Amid these evidences of aviation progress in one generation, the air corps announced its second world record this week. A "flying fortress" yesterday left Wright Field at Dayton, O., and streaked 625 miles at 259.398 miles an hour carrying a load of 11,023 pounds. Earlier, a similar plane reached an altitude of 8,200 feet with a payload of 15½ tons.

The record-breaking craft bear little resemblance to the first American military airplane which a war department board accepted formally from Wilbur and Orville Wright 30 years ago. It had made a successful trial flight from Fort Myer, across the Potomac from Washington, to Alexandria, Va., about five miles away, at a little more than 42 miles an hour. It turned at a little more than 47 miles an hour.

Today the army could point to pursuit planes that make nearly 10 times that speed. It could send out squadrons of airplanes over American cities and towns from nine air stations. Today's national demonstration centered on Wright Field. Performance trials of standard army combat airplanes, flights by tactical squadrons and a re-union of military and commercial aviation pioneers of the period ante-dating 1912 were on the program.

On the west coast the civilian population collaborated with the air corps in putting into operation an "aircraft warning net" to signal the approach of enemy bombers. Officers laid out a net of civilian observation stations about eight miles apart from the Mexican to the Canadian border.

Edward Dalby, chairman of the ticket committee, states there are 300 tickets on sale.

After two years, Marlborough will again have a theater, it has been announced. Negotiations carried on with Drew Lett, owner of the Advance Building on Main street, have resulted in the granting of a lease. The theatre to be known as the M. and D. State, is expected to open in about 10 days. Preparations for the showing of the first screen attractions are rapidly going forward according to the vice-president and general manager, Thomas F. Dixon. The building has been undergoing inspection by Sergeant Hulse of the state police and approval of the structure is expected shortly. Mr. Dixon states that the latest sound and projection equipment is to be used in the State.

The Sunday school of the Marlborough Methodist Church has completed plans for the annual picnic which will be held Thursday, August 10, at Bear Mountain Park. Transportation will be provided for those who make the trip. The cars will leave the church at 1 p. m.

Marlborough, Aug. 1—A large number of the local firemen attended the annual clambake held on the Young property on the Dock Street. Andrew Knapp was general chairman and was assisted by other members. The bake was for members only.

Three more miles of roads were resurfaced in the town during the past week, the road commissioner reports. DuBois street and South Grand street were given a coat of oil and stone.

Sands avenue in Milton received the same treatment by the road crews. At present, the town men are working on the Ridge Road and are engaging in cleaning the ditches and shoulders of grass, weeds and other obstructions, in order that the ditches may carry a maximum of water. The object is to prevent an overflow on the highway during the winter and the consequent formation of ice.

Information from Washington, which was received by Road Commissioner Joseph Morrow this week, indicated that changes in the local WPA will be more drastic than was at first thought. In a communication from Kingston, Mr. Morrow was notified that all local projects will be discontinued. Of the 17 men employed eight will be laid off permanently. The remainder will be transferred to projects in Wallkill. This action concluded all WPA activities in Marlborough. It will not be resumed unless the town's relief quota of 15 is filled, thus making it necessary to find employment for those unable to receive relief benefits.

On Sunday, Mary Marks, Betsy Black, Ellen Black, Carolyn Wygant, Charlotte Wygant, Doris Dalby and Anne Sundstrom, all of Marlborough, Marion Maddox of Washington, D. C., and Virginia Hallock of Milton went to Camp Wendy, Girl Scout Camp at Wallkill for a two weeks encampment.

Plaintiff Wins Annulment Plea

The marriage of Carmine Castaldo to Vera Castaldo has been annulled on the grounds of fraud by Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirck on application of the plaintiff, who appeared by Michael Nardone. The plaintiff who lives at Marlborough asked the court to annul the marriage, which took place at Greenwich, Conn., on August 12, 1933, on the grounds of misrepresentation. He claims that the defendant agreed that she would have a church service later and that she would make a home for him and go to such places as it became necessary in order for him to secure work. The complaint states that she later refused to comply with these promises which were made prior to marriage and the application to the court was made on the grounds of fraud.

Heard at a special term on July 15, Justice Schirck has made an order granting the petition.
